KEMAL FOUNDS NEW PARTY IN TURKEY

Galls His Followers the People's Party
Approves Erection of Statues of National Heroes

Constantinople, Feb. 26.—In the course of his long speech-making tour in explanation of the People's Party, which he is founding, Mustapha Kemal Pasha was questioned by his hearers on everything from the religious to the political. In instance, a man in the audience demanded to know whether the proposed statues of national heroes were not in contravention of the Islamic law. Kemal replied in the negative.

“The Prophet forbade us to fight,” he said. “Some 1,300 years have passed. When he was teaching his principles idolatry was still existing and it was necessary at the time to correct this tendency by forbidding statutory.”

Kemal went on to say that it was impossible idolatry could return, and asserted that all civilized peoples should erect statues and cultivate the art of sculpture inasmuch as a nation without art had no place in the world of progress.

MOTHER AND CHILD LOST THEIR LIVES

Second Child Expected to Die Following New York Fire

Man Killed in Railway Smash in Wisconsin

New York, Feb. 26.—Holding her twin daughters, Marian and Anna, to her breast, Mrs. John Healy stepped to the window ledge of her burning third-story apartment here early to-day and shouted to the crowd below to come to the aid of her husband.

Then she ran Marian to the street. Scorching tongues of flames swept over the mother's form and her clothes and Anna's burst into flames. With a last cry for assistance for her husband, she kissed the child and jumped. The mother and Marian died. Anna lived, however, six days.

No sooner had the mother jumped than the firemen arrived and erected ladders. Fireman Robert Reilly, after four unsuccessful attempts, succeeded in rescuing Healy.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—One man, Bert McClark, Chicago, was killed and a score of passengers injured yesterday when an express train on the Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee Railway crashed into the rear end of an elevated train.

CABINET TO BE FORMED IN EGYPT

But Former Premier Adly Ghan Declines Task

Cairo, Feb. 26.—Adly Ghan Pasha, former Premier, has informed the Liberal Constitutional Council that he desired to accept the task of forming a Ministry. Among the most important items Adly had in view, had he accepted, was to free the country from the fetters with which the late Ministry had tied it regarding the question of the Sudan. Undersecretaries had made no political quarter unprepared even to make a temporary sacrifice in party differences, and therefore he refused to organize a new Cabinet.

A dispatch from Cairo February 5 said the Egyptian Ministry had tendered its resignation to King Fuad, but that the King had declined to accept it. It was added that the crisis had arisen through differences with Great Britain over the Sudan.

SERIOUS DISORDERS IN PETROGRAD

Demonstrations by Unemployed Broken Up by Troops

Soldiers Made Effort to Join the Throns

London, Feb. 26.—Serious disturbances are reported among the unemployed in Petrograd, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen. Red troops who were trying to quell disorders were received with shouts of “We would rather be shot down than starve to death.”

The dispatch adds that officers had great difficulty in preventing the troops from joining the unemployed.

Worth-while Insurance Costs But Little

For 20 years Russell McReady paid for $1,000 worth of protection at an average yearly cost of $20.07.

For 11 years since he has had protection without further payment, and can have it as long as he lives.

And every fifth year he gets a dividend on his paid-up policy.

Whenever he dies his family will get $1,000 as well as the dividend then due.

If he surrendered that policy to-day, he would get a return of $157.15 for every $100 he has paid in.

Let our agent show you this policy.

Judge its value for yourself.

Negotiations for a treaty of commerce between Austria and Jugo-Slavia will begin at the end of March.

SAYS CONSTITUTION HAS BEEN OUTGROWN

Sir Clifford Sifton Urges Canada to Make Changes

Declaris Property Rights Should Be Inviolable

Montreal, Feb. 26.—Amendments to the Canadian constitution such as to take away from Parliament and the Legislatures any power of making laws relating to the inviolability of property were urged by Sir Clifford Sifton in a speech on Saturday to the newly-formed Westerners' Club.

Sir Clifford said the Canadian constitution had grown old, that the Canadian people had outgrown it, and he intimated that the legislatures of the provinces and some of the Western provinces had passed legislation which had interfered seriously with the rights of property and therefore with the rights of the citizens. It was time, he argued, that such matters should be definitely set right.

Taking "Immigration" as his subject, Sir Clifford said his country was a country where there was not prosperity, and this was grounded on the basis of the protection of property rights. These were guaranteed under the United States constitution, and unless the Canadian constitution offered similar guarantees, it would be of no use in coming here, and the possibilities of getting the desired influx of settlers would be made that much more difficult.

From Central Europe.

On the point of immigration itself, speaking as the man who was Minister of the Interior in charge of immigration at a time when the Canadian Government reached its highest point, Sir Clifford differed with many views, apparently based on labor union demands backed by contentions regarding the "standard of living." He argued that there was an enormous extent of land available for settlement by peoples from Central Europe, but peoples who would not demand these unusual standards of living. His own ancestors, he said, had come to Canada and hewn out their own living as pioneers, and so had thousands of others who had left Central Europe, history, which standards of living did not apply to pioneer conditions, and he believed that if Canada was to get the immigration it needed, it would be necessary to admit not only artisans and workers so as to supply industry, but to admit people who were willing to take the rougher side of life and hew out their living under pioneer conditions.

BRITISH M.P.'S DISCUSS DIVORCE

London, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The equal moral standing of the wife with the husband in the hearing of suits for divorce is the chief question involved in the Matrimonial Causes Bill now before the House of Commons. The bill is to come up next Friday for second reading.

The measure provides that a wife is entitled to a divorce on the ground of adultery alone, whereas at present she must prove desertion or cruelty in addition to unfaithfulness in order to obtain a divorce, although under the existing law the husband may receive freedom solely because of his wife's adultery.

The Matrimonial Causes Bill is a private—member's bill. Premier Bonar Law, who is introducing the bill, has levelled against him by the Assemblies reformers, is understood to be in favor of some change in the existing legislation concerning the divorce.

CAPE TOWN HAS WAR MEMORIAL

Unveiling Ceremony on Table Mountain Yesterday

Elevated Railways Included in Scheme; United States Capital

Cape Town, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's). Table Mountain, the great eminence which overshadows the capital, was a scene of a unique ceremony yesterday when Premier Smuts of the Union of South Africa unveiled on the highest point a memorial to the members of the Mountain Club who fell in the Great War.

Thousands of people, including a number of notables, climbed the mountain from all directions to converge at the place of the unveiling. The ceremony was opened with a religious service after which Premier Smuts delivered an eloquent and stirring address. Buglers later sounded the "Last Post" and a reverie. The ceremony was concluded by pipers playing a lament.

THE THIN END OF THE WEDGE?

Almost without warning President Harding has asked the Senate to make the United States a full-fledged member of the Permanent Court of International Justice which has been established under the Covenant of the League of Nations at The Hague. Mr. Hughes has suggested one or two reservations which would have to be considered with the main proposal. The principal condition very naturally is one which declares that the action of the Senate in giving assent to the President's request would not involve any legal relation on the part of the United States to the League or the assumption of any obligation under its Covenant.

It is not necessary to point out that even this fairly mild demonstration of a desire to permit the United States to take a more lively interest in world affairs will provoke a good deal of debate and not a little opposition, to anything favoring of a departure in ever so slight a particular from the traditional policy of the country. The President will be in a position to marshal numerous arguments in favor of the course which he has now asked the Senate to take. He can employ the economic theory and make out a case that must appeal to the business mind and its conception of international trading at this point in the world's history. But he will meet with a tremendous body of political and public opinion which is deaf and dumb to all overtures of this nature.

On the other hand it is beginning to become more apparent to a large number of the people that conditions in Europe have arrived at a stage at which a more active interest on the part of the United States would produce benefits for herself and assist the Old World to its feet. President Harding could not have selected a more opportune moment for his proposal. Congress has witnessed Great Britain's demonstration of good faith and has endorsed the conditions under which the greatest financial transaction the world has ever known was concluded. The Senate will be able to discuss the question—either at the present or at a subsequent session—of American membership in the International Court with the knowledge that one of the country's most eminent jurists was responsible for much of the material which comprises the Constitution that will govern the operation of this highly important and novel body. These two considerations in themselves—the one a new understanding between the two great English-speaking nations and the other a direct sympathy between a great American jurist and his work for a better world—are not without importance at this juncture. And it is worth mentioning here that as a first recognition of his extremely valuable contributions Mr. Root was invited to become a member of the Court. His inability to accept the invitation was occasioned by the fact that his country still remained opposed to the League of Nations and all its offsprings.

It would be unwise to expect the Senate's approval of the President's proposal to be followed immediately, or followed at all, by an active interest in the League of Nations itself. At the same time there is in this overture the germ of something that should eventually inject a fuller measure of American influence into the various agencies that are formed and forming to reduce the dangers of serious international discord. President Harding and his associates set an excellent example in calling the Washington Conference. It did an enormous amount of good because it brought the representatives of five great nations together and established a genuine desire on their parts to remove much of the material which provokes war. Because it resulted in only a moderate start towards disarmament, because the more spectacular of its decisions merely involved the scrapping of certain engines of destruction whose future and efficacy are open to doubt, some pessimists have already discounted the value of the agreements reached.

This is not a fair view of the accomplishments of the Conference. The principal proof that President Harding's course has amply repaid the world lies in the fact that it established a new and substantial bond between Great Britain and our neighbor to the South in respect of what at one time threatened to ruffle the good relations that have existed so long and must continue to exist between them. Britain realizes that disarmament can be brought about and the League of Nations taken out of its somewhat academic rut if the latter's half a hundred states could add the United States to the roster. But without that influence, without the active co-operation of 110,000,000 people, it is difficult to do the very things which the whole world is trying to demand should be done.

Thus it can be set down that this gesture of the President of the United States will be viewed with the greatest possible interest throughout the world. He will be adding to his own difficulties as far as a considerable section of public opinion in his own country is concerned; but he will have the satisfaction of discovering how far he can take his followers over a course which many of them have so often forsworn.

MR. OLIVER'S MISSION.

British Columbians who have watched the newspapers of this country during the last few weeks will have come to the conclusion that if Premier Oliver does not get all the results for which he has worked so hard he has made out an exceptionally strong case for better treatment of this Province in respect of freight rates. This is one question upon which all British Columbians are firmly united and we are of the opinion that no kind of partisan feeling would mar the congratulations to which Mr. Oliver is entitled. In his interview with the Dominion Government and before many large and influential bodies throughout the country he has energetically combined fundamental and historical fact with language quite simple to understand. The West will look forward to the fruits of his labors and recognize in his indisposition of the moment the aftermath of continual strain and much traveling. He is fortunate in his possession of a stout constitution that is capable of satisfying substantial demands. His early recovery will be hoped for.

AN OLD TRICK.

There is a suggestion in Turkish Nationalist quarters that if the Angora Government plays its cards carefully a separate accord with Britain at the expense of France may be arrived at. As an argument it is neither novel nor new. As a promise of solution for the Near East question it is not worth the time given to its consideration.

Turkey and other countries who indulge in the pastime of trying to drive a wedge into the good relations which exist between Great Britain and France may just as well recognize the fact that French action in the Ruhr is not the first time Britain's ally has tried force with her anien-fie since the armistice. She sent her troops to Frankfort against the wishes of Downing Street; but the difference of opinion, which will always exist among two peoples so diametrically opposed in national characteristics and individual sentiment, did not disturb the practical force and unanimity upon which the Entente is based and will survive.

The Near East question has produced similar conflicts of opinion between British and French representatives. In a general sense, however, Turkey has found, and will continue to find, perfect accord. And Great Britain may yet use a little "persuasion" with Germany.

FEW AND FAR BETWEEN.

More than thirty years ago a Huddersfield charwoman repaid to the local Board of Guardians out of her savings the sum of £47.00 which had been paid to her father and mother in relief. In consequence of her circumstances the Board pressed her to keep the money; but she refused. Against her wishes it was invested and now amounts to £125.00. The woman has just passed her seventy-first birthday and is still working. She refuses to take the old-age pension and the Guardians have arranged to send a deputation to her to try and persuade her to take the £125.00.

We suggested yesterday that posterity would write the epitaph of the former Ontario boy who went to the United States, and became heir to a fortune of $13,000,000, according to the manner in which he spent the wealth he did not earn. But in the case of the Huddersfield charwoman there is no need to wait until she has left this world before paying tribute to her indomitable courage and almost unparalleled conception of personal honor. Industrial disputes and social unrest would have poor chance to flourish if everybody would emulate her example of honest toil.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Reports from nearly all centres in Canada indicate that this year will see a good deal of building activity with homes predominating. This is a healthy sign and Victoria will contribute her quota.

The latest suggestion for German resistance to the policy of France is secret arming. Of course if the debtor nation thinks it can fight and halt the restraining process it had better estimate the consequences if it desires to give posterity no evidence of war damage.

Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen is quite annoyed at the entrance of an Independent Conservative in the Mitcham by-election and describes it as "an act of gross treachery to Mr. Bonar Law and the Conservative Party." After all the "intruder" very naturally objects to the manner in which the former Minister of Agriculture and the champion of the British cattle embargo has been unloaded on to the constituency, and prefers to try and win the seat for Mr. Bonar Law himself, rather than see it placed in another political column by the defeated representative for Taunton.

OUR CONTEMPORARIES

IF GERMANY HAD WON.

Toronto Telegram.—French methods of collecting indemnities may not appeal to certain interested people who appear to think that as France bore the brunt of the fighting during the war, France should also bear most of the burden that follows the war. But if Germany had won; would the Kaiser have been content with a peaceful collection of the reparation agreed to? Would Germany have left France saddled with only a financial defeat? France knows Germany better even than the pacifists who spend most of their time spreading German propaganda. And France, having once been dealt with by a German conqueror, knows best how to deal with a defeated Germany.

CAREFUL WITH GLUE.

Rod and Gun.—Animal or hide glue is considered indispensable to such industries as cabinet-making furniture manufacturing, coach-building and others using jointed or veneered wood. It is therefore of importance for those engaged in such industries to note that this animal glue loses its strength very rapidly at temperatures approaching that of boiling water (about 212 degrees F.) which are those obtained in the ordinary double glue pot. It is asserted by the Forest Products Laboratories, forestry branch, department of the interior, Canada, that hide glues being melted and applied should be maintained at a temperature between 140 degrees and 150 degrees F. and that above that temperature the strength of the glue is impaired.

British Columbians who have watched the newspapers of this country during the last few weeks will have come to the conclusion that if Premier Oliver does not get all the results for which he has worked so hard he has made out an exceptionally strong case for better treatment of this Province in respect of freight rates. SINGING IN THE SCHOOLS.

To the Editor.—Like other citizens, I am greatly interested in the campaign for economy, but am sorry there is any consideration given to dispense with

I have been associated with music in the Sunday Schools of this city for twenty years, and have seen the progress of the schools in the children being able to sing here, as I had heard them in other places, but with the introduction of the present incumbent, the singing of the children has gradually improved, until Victoria is as good as any others, and this is because they have been taught early the proper methods.

FIRE NUMBER.

To the Editor.—Could not the present fire alarm be altered so as to speed things up a little in case of fire? To illustrate my point, the following information actually occurred recently.

Operator: "Number, please?"
Gentlemen of the Board, please don't accept the proposal, but let us continue with the ringings of children to follow with the bell and handbells, which is an asset to any people.

Operator: "What number, please?"
Caller: "O."
Operator: "Repeat your number, Caller: "O." Fire."

Operator: "Yes, yes!" and the connection was made.

While I am about it, I should like to ask if it is necessary for the Board to have a bell and handbells, which is an asset to any people.

THE MAN WITH STEEL FINGERS

Installment No. 2

Lord Valleys seemed to reflect while the Prefect of Police was speaking, and he now replied with little hesitation.

"Chances, monsieur," he said, "is unquestionable the greatest and most mysterious factor in all human affairs, but it is modified and diverted by the human will. Human intelligence, monsieur, and chance are the two factors."

The Prefect of Police continued to look down at his hands.

"I have been of a different opinion, Lord Valleys," he said. "I think there is an intention behind events, a sort of will to justice, righteousness, as one might say. It is not chance, the usual definition of the word, and the human will can circumvent it. It is strange, as I see it, Lord Valleys."

"This thing we call human intelligence seems to be able to reflect and advance the vague, immense, persistent impulse behind events, and to delay and to distract it, but not ultimately to defeat it."

"Take the extraordinary events that have happened to you, Lord Valleys. In what case, how they could have arrived by chance?"

"Your uncle, Lord Winton, took the title and the whole properties of your family by the accident of birth. Your father, the second son, having no title or fortune, entered the diplomatic service and was allotted to one of the little courts of southeastern Europe. He married your mother there, and you were born and grew up in the atmosphere of Sardinia."

"There was little chance that you would ever have fortune or title. Lord Winton had two sons; one of them married an American, the other remained single. There were three sons between you and the title and its immense estates in England. . . . What chance was there, monsieur, that these persons should be removed and these benefits descend to you?"

"Lord Valleys stopped. He leaned a little forward in the chair, and his voice took on a firmer note.

"Monsieur," he said, "I am saying to you now a thing to which I testified at the English trial, and which I am not believed. Lord Winton told me that he expected a person to call on him within a very few minutes and to remain for perhaps an hour. He asked me to return at the end of an hour. I got up to go. As I went down the stairway, a hansom entered the house. In the doorway of the city, stopped before the door. The door was closed but the sound was clearly audible.

"Lord Winton, who was behind me, came also down the steps. On the way he took a few short, uneven candles which the servants, according to custom, had placed there. An idea came to Lord Winton, for he stopped me as my hand was on the door to go out. He took up one of the candles and held it to a tall brass candlestick and touching a nail on the arm, handed it to me."

"Instead of going out," he said, "suppose you go down into the wine cellar. There should be some bottles of Burgundy in the wine cellar. You will be served." Ossard's orchestra will play the latest selections. W. J. Bowser, K. C., will present the prizes.

"Lord Valleys, who was behind me, came also down the steps. On the way he took a few short, uneven candles which the servants, according to custom, had placed there. An idea came to Lord Winton, for he stopped me as my hand was on the door to go out. He took up one of the candles and held it to a tall brass candlestick and touching a nail on the arm, handed it to me."

"You will see, monsieur, that this idea that I was merely a grown-up lad, come to visit an ancient relative, was quite fixed with Lord Winton. As the servant was gone, he was, but thought as though I were an undergraduate from some English public school."

The man looked down at his firm, pale face, resting upon and obscuring the arms of the chair in which he sat.

"This, monsieur," he said, "is a portion of my evidence which the English criminal court refused to believe. I was, indeed, stupid."

Monsieur Jonquelle looked up sharply at that sentence.

"The English criminal court," he said, "was even more stupid than you might be, as you have got 'impossibly stupid.'"

Lord Valleys made no comment.

"There was only my word for the statement," he said. "I could not prove it, and yet it was the truth."

The man was startled by Monsieur Jonquelle's reply.

Another installment of this thrilling detective story will appear in our next issue.

Lord Valleys continued coolly. "They spared no effort to fix it upon me. That they were unable to do so is not, I think, attributable to this thing, which you call Providence."

"It is attributable rather, I think, to the intelligence of my legal counsel and to myself."

The murder of Lord Winton to which English authorities attributed it, Lord Valleys continued coolly. "They spared no effort to fix it upon me. That they were unable to do so is not, I think, attributable to this thing, which you call Providence."

"It is attributable rather, I think, to the intelligence of my legal counsel and to myself."

IMPORTER PICKED UP NEW TAIL SHAFT

The Government freighter Canadian Importer, which reached quarantine on Saturday night at Esquimalt, was able after getting a clean bill of health at daybreak yesterday steamed in the Esquimalt harbor to take aboard a new tail shaft. The Importer left about 11 a.m. yesterday for Prince Rupert for overhaul in drydock.

Salvage operations on the stranded motorship Coolcha were brought to a successful conclusion at 8:35 o'clock this morning when the vessel, which has been ashore since February 14, was floated from her position on the rocks off Albert Head.

The purchase system was used by the Pacific Salvage Company and the vessel came off the rocks without difficulty on an 8 ft. 5 in. tide and was pulled into deep water.

The vessel was then taken in tow for a temporary repair and was taken alongside the wharf at Yarrows Ltd.

The temporary patches that had been placed over the holes punctured in the ship's planking by the sharp rocks, held good and what water was taken care of by the pump.

Docked At Yarrows.

The salvaged vessel is being hauled out on the marine ways at Yarrows to-day for survey.

Another "conquest" has been added to the list of successful salvage operations credited to the Pacific Salvage Company by the floating to-day of the Coolcha. The ship it was believed that she would be a total loss.

Nanooe Assisted.

The salvage steamer Algerine and the Nanooe assisted in the salvage of the Coolcha. An arrangement had been reached between the Pacific Salvage Company and the B.C. Coast Steamship Service for the use of the Nanooe. An attempt was made to haul the stranded ship afoul last Friday, but she held fast. On that occasion the strain on the steel hawser was so great that a ledge of rocky ledge, upon which a kedge anchor had been placed, was torn off.

All Ready for Tide.

In the intervening days all preparations had been made by the salvage company for the next attempt on a more favorable tide. The water was higher at 8:35 a.m. to-day and when the strain was put on the cable the Coolcha was released and went afoul.

The tug Nanooe went alongside and took a tow line, while the Algerine fell in astern.

Pumps Active.

On the arrival of the salvaged vessel and her consort at Yarrows about 11 a.m. the powerful pumps that had been installed by the salvage outfit were hurling streams of water in all directions.

Representatives of the Pacific Freighters' Company, owners of the Coolcha, were on hand and made arrangements with Yarrows Ltd. for the hauling out of the vessel for survey.

The Coolcha went aground off Albert Head on the morning of February 14 last during a heavy snowstorm. She was bound from San Francisco to Nanooe, B.C. to load lumber.

The disposition of the vessel, now that she has been salvaged, is indefinite. Specifications will be prepared following survey and it is expected that competitive bids will be called for repairs.

CISCO GOES CHEAPLY

The former whisky runner Cisco, put up for auction at Vancouver on Saturday, was sold to Victor Ferries for $150. It is reported that she will be outfitted as a fishing boat.

Full particulars later.

Also at 11 o'clock in Our Stockyard A very good lot of Rhode Island Reds, White Wyandottes and Leghorn Hens and Pulletts, Cocks, Hens, etc.

EMPEROR OF CANADA HERE FROM ORIENT

After Her Annual Refit at Hongkong, Crack Canadian Pacific Liner Made Quarantine at Noon With Full Cargo and 220 Passengers Aboard

DR. C. H. GODIN ON INSPECTION TOUR

Dr. C. H. Godin, Superintendent of the Maritime Hospital Service arrived in the city—on a tour of inspection of the customs and immigration offices and stations. He will leave for the Mainland this evening.

At 12:10 p.m. to-day the Canadian Pacific passenger liner Empress of Canada dropped anchor off William Head and was boarded by the quarantine doctor from the tender Madge.

Under her schedule the big three-sacket should have made quarantine by daybreak this morning from the Orient, but she was delayed several hours by adverse weather as she approached the coast. Capt. A. J. Hailey wirelessed yesterday that he would make quarantine by noon on Monday. He was but a few minutes out in his estimate as it was exactly 12:10 p.m. to-day when the ship's anchor was let go and rumbled to the bed of the bay.

Refitted at Hongkong.

The Empress of Canada is fresh from the outfitting yards at Hongkong where she has been given a annual overhaul during the past month. The Canadian sailed from Hongkong on February 10 and cleared from Yokohama on February 17.

The Canadian Pacific ship, in addition to bringing in a capacity cargo of dried passenger coal, through freight includes very valuable consignment of raw silk for the Eastern market.

Passenger Landed.

On the arrival of the liner Empress of Canada in quarantine it was reported that a second class lady passenger had developed symptoms of chickenpox on the day out.

The quarantine doctor dismissed it as a mild case of chickenpox and the passenger was taken ashore.

The ship was then given pratique and proceeded to her berth here, docking at Pier 2 about 2 p.m.

STOWAWAYS CAUSED

MUTINY ON SHIP

Nine Members of the Taibu Maru's Crew Arrested in Vancouver

Japanese Freighter Had 29 Stowaways on Board

Vancouver, Feb. 26.—City police, called by the officers of the Japanese cargo steamship Taibu Maru and immigration authorities, arrested nine alleged mutineers of the steamer's crew and twenty-nine stowaways, when the vessel entered the harbor here late yesterday afternoon.

The stowaways were found after a long search hidden in the port coal bunker of the ship. They are being held by immigration officers for deportation.

Arrested Officers.

According to the report of the captain, shortly after leaving Kobe, Japan, bound for Vancouver to load logs, a number of stowaways put in their appearance and with the cooperation of some of the crew defied the ship's officers. The men were armed, it is declared, and thus intimidated anyone daring to interfere with them. The vessel's plight was wirelessed to her agents here, and when she entered the harbor she was met in the harbor by the ship's agents and harbor officials.

Arrests Made.

Later the police were summoned and the arrests followed. The alleged mutineers appeared in police court here this morning. The Taibu Maru carried a crew of thirty officers and men.

INBOUND FROM YOKOHAMA

The Blue Funnel steamship Provinces, which left Yokohama on February 10, is due at Victoria on March 1. Ships have been ordered for this port, while nine Chinese are traveling steerage for Victoria.

Values in Business Section, Revised Last Year, Allowed to Stand

City officials, aided by a special staff of clerks, completed the revision of Victoria's land assessment, as ordered by the Court of Revision. From now until midnight Wednesday, when the new assessment roll must be finished, they will work at top speed to effect the Court's many sweeping valuation changes.

Assessments of business properties in the downtown districts of the city are not being altered by the Revision Court to any extent, officials explained to-day. The whole business section of Victoria was reassessed last year, and the figures find them being allowed to stand. Few appeals against these valuations were received by the Revision Court. Assessments in all other parts of the city were reduced by the Court.

The Revision Court did not sit this morning, but will resume its sessions to-morrow afternoon.

Eliminated Liverpool in Third Round and Looms Up as Favorites—Quarter of Mil-

Eight Matches Saturday

London, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The third round of the English football competition dominated the interest in football on Saturday. Never before have the London clubs been so successful. All four teams engaged were victorious. Four out of the last eight clubs in the competition are now eliminated—the New York A.C. must in Manhattan to run in a three-mile handicap in which he was forced to quit at the three-quarter-mile mark. The race was won in 15.01 seconds by Michael Ryan, New York A.C., who had a 175-yard handicap.

The round draw for the fourth round is regarded with exceptional interest.

The outstanding result of Saturday's play was the triumph of Charlton of Third division, the youngest member of the competition. Charlton was now removed from the competition three first league clubs, namely, Manchester City, Preston North End and West Bromwich Albion. This is a great record for a team's first season in the competition.

Liverpool's Dream Shattered.

Liverpool, the leaders of the double event, the league championship and the Association cup, was rudely shattered before a greater gathering of their supporters on their own ground. Sheffield United is now spoken of as the favorite for the cup. Their victory over Liverpool by 2-1 was quite impressive.

The eight cup matches Saturday were watched by well over a quarter of a million spectators who paid £20,000 for admission, but the aggregate attendance in the Association's eight matches in the third round was 35,000 who paid £25,000 to see the games. Saturday's biggest gate was at Cardiff, where £5,000 saw the Hotspurs gain a victory. The crowd at Charlton was a record for the grounds, namely, 35,000. All eight matches were favored by passable weather.

London, Feb. 26.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The draw for the fourth round of the English Association football competition was made to-day. By it the four London clubs, West Ham, Charlton, Queen's Park Rangers and Tottenham remaining in the competition, are all drawn against all out of town clubs who will have a chance of going into the semi-finals. The draw follows:

Bury vs. Southampton vs. West Ham.
Charlton vs. Huddersfield or Bolton.
Queen's Park Rangers vs. Shefffield.
Tottenham Hotspurs vs. Derby.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Members of the Canadian Legion held a smoker Saturday evening in their quarters, 1406 Douglas Street. There was a good attendance, and the evening was spent quite informally.

A housewarming was held Saturday evening by the G. A. U. V. at their quarters, 1309 Government Street. Several hundred were present, and a good musical programme was rendered.

Donald McCaig, charged with being drunk in public, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 with the usual option of 40 days in jail in default of payment to the police court to-day. Charles H. Green, charged with riding a bicycle on the sidewalk, paid $2 for that privilege.

The many friends of Miss Ora M. Walker, cashier for the Excelsior Insurance Company, Calgary, will be pleased to know that she has won the first prize of $60 in the 1922 Cashiers' Club Contest. This competition is conducted by the insurance company for all the cashiers working for them throughout the Dominion of Canada. Miss Walker resided here for over two years and received her training at the Sprott-Shaw Institute. She was also employed in the Land Settlement Board.

Over 150 Elks and their friends attended the smoking concert given by members of Victoria Lodge No. 2, M. P. O. E. Saturday night. Vocal numbers were rendered by Mr. Flirth, Brothers Tom Kelway, Ernie Butter, who also provided a number of sharp numbers with Brother Cecil Heaton at the piano, acting as accompanist.

A pork-and-bean supper was a feature of the entertainment. Boxed lunches were eaten by D. D. Davies, Harry Picca, Jack Andrew and Fred Benson, and John McDonald and Roland Roberts were staged during the evening.

For Relief Work—On Tuesday evening a concert will be given in the L. O. O. F. Hall, Douglas Street, under the auspices of the Good Cheer Club of Colfax Reservoir Lodge No. 1. The proceeds will be devoted to general relief work of the club. The following have kindly consented to take part: Vocalists, Mrs. W. D. Todd, Mrs. C. A. Kelley, Mrs. Edmunds, Miss Stella Buriton, Mr. Jack McCall, Mr. J. Dobbin, pianists, Mr. W. Deaville, Miss White, Mr. Ronald Heard, elocutionist, Mrs. I. W. Walker; violinists, Miss Bessie Jones, Mr. Jack Pullen; cornetists, Mr. Sidney Rogers; also a humorous sketch.

Preliminary arrangements for an indignation meeting to protest against the reduction of miners' and laborers' wages in Sanich were made by the Sanich Workers' Association Saturday night. The indignation meeting will be held about March 14. The Association passed resolution commanding A. L. Niel, Independent Labour Member for Comox-Alberni, to stand for the Oriental question.

BRITISH MUSICIANS FIGHT JAZZ INFUX

But Restaurants and Hotels Seek to Please Public by Engaging Them

London, Feb. 26.—Another invasion is alarming London this time of jazz musicians. Restaurants and hotels are importing Americans, because, they say, they are superior. But English musicians are up in arms, declaring that the Americans are putting perfectly good native talent out of a job at a time of widespread unemployment.

These musicians get as much as £40 a week. Nominally the Government bars foreign musicians unless they are urgently required by employers, but the Americans are evading the rules as the Japanese in California have done. Immigration laws by means of picture brides.

An invitation is arranged in England to a number of Americans to come to form an orchestra. The Americans summoned apply to the nearest British consul who, after inquiry, sends a circular command, lets them pass. Many managers take on Americans because the United States is the home of jazz, the theory being that its citizens must be more familiar with their own peculiar contribution to the world's art. However, this is denied by the leader of a large London dance orchestra, who says that not even second rate musicians are now unemployed in England.

He asserts that ever has there been such a demand for musicians as at present. But he explains why American musicians are being imported: "Syncopated music, which is rapidly increasing in vogue with the British public, originated in the most modern form in the United States. All the most novel compositions, including highly symphonized syncopation, originate in the United States, and ecclesiastical performances and interpretations of various instruments all have originated there. Is it surprising, therefore, that despite the keen competition to obtain their services in America, where the vogue is even greater than here, and despite the financial difficulties, the fees are very considerable, and the risks, which are very great, those on this side responsible for public entertainment, finding a demand for these bands, had to obtain some leaders from America."

"To refer to the American schools of symphonized and syncopated music as 'transatlantic nurseries' or 'organized noise' is merely silly. If we had such schools for training English musicians in syncopated music, English musicians could have had the work and the wages. The musician of this class is worth exactly what he can get for drawing the public, as in any other form of the entertainment business."

TAKING SIDES

The peal of bells announced the importance of the wedding at the church.

Inside the building the bridegroom, the best man, and the ushers were in close conference over the guest list.

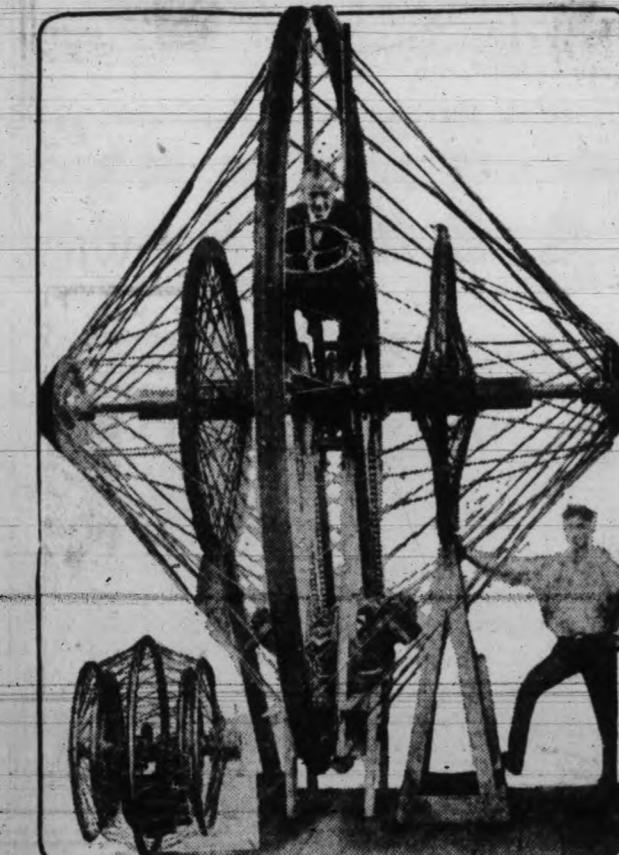

"You understand," said the best man, "you know the bride comes in, and ask them if they are friends of the bride or the bridegroom."

"And what then?" asked the head usher.

"Why, you seat the friends of the bride on one side of the church and the friends of the groom on the other. It's the custom."

"I can't see the use of that," said one of the ushers. "They'll take sides soon enough."

CYCLE WITH ONE WHEEL

Merion, Pa., Feb. 26.—A one-wheeled racing vehicle that will beat every speed record yet accomplished.

A vehicle that can't turn turtle—that becomes steadier the faster you drive it.

Trains that will run at a dizzy speed overhead, using single cables instead of steel rails for tracks.

Professor E. J. Christie thinks he will have made all those things possible when he has completed his "gyroscopic unicycle."

Already Christie has made small models and is tremendous speed and can't be overtaken. Now he's concentrating on a large model in which a man can ride.

The unicycle is a queer looking device. The main wheel—the one wheel on which the car runs—is 14 feet in diameter and looks like a

TO BECOME BISHOP COSTLY IN ENGLAND

Payments Required by Government Make Total From $1,000 to $2,500

Must Pay for "Restitution of Temporality," Which They Don't Get

London, Feb. 26.—Being a bishop certainly is a costly proposition. Not only does it take lots of money to get a pastoral staff, but lots more to hold on to it. It was recently estimated that it costs anywhere from £200 to £500 to acquire a bishopric, including fares and tips.

The church recently took up the case of a bishop who had to pay £400. First he went to the Crown office, where the prospective bishop pays more than £500 for his warrant & £10 for the certificate and £3 for letters patent. The Crown gives the dean and the chapter permission to elect a bishop, but the Crown dictates his name. When the chapter elects the man it is ordered to choose, the King gives his assent. That costs another £50.

Then the Crown office hands the elected bishop his "restitution of temporality." This dates back to the time when bishops were temporal—when bishops were temporal, the vicar of the parish wherein the cathedral is situated gets 5 guineas.

The new bishop must tip the secretary 25 guineas on coming into office, and in addition there are a number of other expenses. But the bishop finds that after getting into office there are many expenses.

Recently the Bishop of Westminster said in a meeting of the national assembly of the church of England, in London, that he was having up a salary of £6,000, and must have £2,000 more for private expenses. All the ecclesiastical dignitaries applauded this statement. The bishop, in his speech, said: "Our income is not sufficient to meet our expenses and it is a financial and very much misundertood." He proposed to call on the people of his diocese year by year to contribute something toward the bishop's expenses in the administration of the diocese.

"What kind of a man is he—good, bad or indifferent?"

"Well, that depends a good deal on who is on the other end of the plumb line."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, if you size him up with Judas Iscariot he looms up middlin' fair; but when you come to set him down—beaten—on the other end, he's not so bad. He's a decent fellow, he does dinkie terrible surprisin'—he does, for a fact."

BERNHARDT PRAISED
LAURETTE TAYLOR

"Peg o' My Heart" Will Be
Dominion Offering

While "Peg o' My Heart" was playing in New York, with Laurette Taylor in the title rôle, the divine Sarah Bernhardt arrived in the metropolis. After watching Miss Taylor's act, Bernhardt wrote:

"One young actress in New York has not allowed herself to be blinded. She worked hard and is still working. Although she is already a very accomplished comedienne possessing humor, emotion, and a rare thing for her age—power. I speak of Laurette Taylor, who will become within five years, the foremost actress of this country."

In the same play, "Peg o' My Heart," which Miss Taylor has just completed immortalizing on the screen for Metro, under the direction of King Vidor. This brilliant actress had the career of eminence in the theatre second to none. Off the stage she has always been an interesting personality whose deviations from the ordinary were marked from early childhood.

She possessed so much vitality and enthusiasm that if nothing else was stirring, if it was a dull, monotonous day, she soon managed to enliven it in one way or another. She would do such things as—well let Miss Taylor tell it herself. Speaking of her childhood days in New York, recently:

"One Sunday I was walking through a deserted street in Harlem. Nothing stirred. The dead silence was too much for me. The only living thing besides myself was a horse tied to a post. I untied him, gave him a switch and yelled: 'Runaway horse!' I went down the street and was swarmed with people. The horse was caught, no harm was done, and I went home satisfied."

"In those days I used to imitate somebody all the time, or play a part that pleased me better. My own mother used to be a different person. I pretended to be a foreigner and talked with a strange accent. Some of the boys were very much impressed till one day the accent fell and broke."

Thrills, humor and pathos permeate every foot of this film that at once convulses and intrigues the onlooker.

The story is that of an escaped convict who runs his way to Texas after dominating the cloistered life has stolen from a minister. At the small town where he leaves his train he is mistaken by the congregation of the church for the young minister who had been assigned there.

Then "The Pilgrim" unwittingly falls into the path of a woman who has come to the home of church leaders. The complications that follow are screamingly funny. There is a precious situation concerning a plum pudding and a Derby hat, while Charlie's pantomime rendering of the story of David and Goliath from the pulpit, without the aid of properties, is a bit of incomparable acting.

As for more about the plot—no! It is too delicious a picture to be spoiled by the telling.

The photoplay, "Peg o' My Heart," is a screen version of J. Hartley Manners' play, directed by King Vidor. It is now presented at the Dominion Theatre.

SEAFARING FOLK FORM FILM THEME

"Java Head" Is Story Centred
in Massachusetts Home, at Capitol

George Melford who directed "The Sheik" and "Burning Sands" has added another success to his achievements in "Java Head" his newest Paramount production. In screening this popular novel by Joseph Hergesheimer he has departed from desert themes and entered a new field, New England and the seafaring folks of sixty years ago. It is not a story of Java as the name might imply. Java Head is the home of one of the principal characters in the story located at Salem, Mass., where all the scenes are mostly laid excepting a few in China. This story which ran in the Saturday Evening Post has been transferred to the screen in a manner that will enable the picture to rank amongst the best of the directors' work. It has strong dramatic action and holds the attention at all times. Beatrice Joy, Jacqueline Logan and George Fawcett are in the cast.

TWO RIVALS IN "THE PILGRIM"

Royal Presents This Week
Four Reel Chaplin Feature

"The Pilgrim," a comedy classic in which Charles Chaplin rises to even greater heights of subtlety than he has ever before attained, began an engagement this afternoon at the Royal, that threatens to rival in popularity his unforgettable feature, "The Kid."

A four-reel feature production, rich in true humor, it provides entertainment that appeals to all classes of theatre-goers and again reveals Chaplin as the greatest living comic artist.

Thrills, humor and pathos permeate every foot of this film that at once convulses and intrigues the onlooker.

STUDENTS' RECITAL

Columbia School of Music Gives Recital

The Columbia School of Music gave its sixth monthly recital of the Winter season on Friday evening before a large turn-out of parents and friends. This month's feature is the plan of having all the girls on one side given their respective piano numbers, while the boys followed by going through their part of the programme on the other. This plan proved quite interesting, and could be repeated with great interest.

In the girl's section the talents were

Audrey Mills, Ora Duncan, Emma Stiaw, Isabelle Luscombe, Ellen Dawson, Penne Porte, Margaret Hemingway, Marjorie Moffat, Dorothy Grimshaw, Rita Cottell and Olive Pearson. Those distinguishing themselves in the piano department were Mabel MacLean, Ellen Dawson, Rita Cottell and Olive Pearson. Assisting the girls with a vocal number was Miss L. Wainwright who sang "The Bells of St. Mary's (Adams)." The boys taking part were Brian and Desmond Burdon-Murphy, Schubert, Raymond Kissinger, Ian Grant, George Leich, Jack Baxter, James Comford, Howard Phillips, Eugene and Norman Tyrrell, Roland Roberts and Charles Prior. Among those giving good results were Ian Grant, George Leich, Jack Baxter, Eugene Philion and Desmond and Brian Burton-Murphy, the latter two in a special number a solo and duet. The boy with a vocal number was Miss S. Griffiths, who sang "Love, Send a Bunch of Roses" (Cook).

A little crowd had gathered in the grand hall to watch the features before they were sent to the Academy. The girl strolling round turned to the artist and remarked:

"Strange that angels are always women, isn't it?"

"Yes," said the artist, with a twinkle, "the angels don't know much about women, doesn't it?"

"It may do so," retorted the girl, quickly; "but it certainly shows that they know a lot about men." —T. B. Bits.

Twenty-one musical numbers are contained in the Cabaret girl, every one of the acts being a combination of wit and haunting tunes. Miss Mamie Fraser, one of Victoria's most popular artists, plays the leading and title role, and the balance of the cast includes the following: Playhouse novelties, Peggy Lewis, Catherine McDowell, Will Marshall, Eddie Impett, Reginald Hincks and Ernie Petch. Mr. Hincks has put more than the usual amount of work and care into this production and those who have been privileged to see the rehearsals will realize that it is undoubtedly the best yet. might slip off and marry if she met the right man?" Miss Wharton was asked.

"Not without asking me first," she replied, confidently.

John Tiller, trainer of the London Palace Girls, now appearing with Fred Stone in "Tip Top," has written Miss Kitty Wharton, leader of the troupe, that the title of "London Palace Girls" will not be used to designate any of his other dancing organizations. More than 300 John Tiller dancers are now appearing in Great Britain and France.

This accomplished troupe of English dancers will appear with Fred Stone in his production of "Tip Top" at the Orpheum Theatre, Vancouver, Monday and Tuesday nights, March 6 and 7. They are declared to be the most expert dancing troupe that has come to these shores from the British Metropolis.

MRS. ROBERT BAIRD
Victoria's well known contract singer will be heard at an organ recital to be given at the Metropolitan Church on Wednesday. Mr. Gurney, of the First Presbyterian Church, will render the selections of the organ, while Mrs. Baird has a number of vocal selections to render.

Mrs. A. J. Gibson will accompany Mrs. Baird.

LONDON PALACE GIRLS TO COME

Will Be Seen in Vancouver
Shortly

To bring sixteen English girls of marriage age, 3000 miles from home, and to give her word to keep them together as a dancing organization for two years and at the end of that time to return them safe and unmarried to their trainer in London, is the rather substantial promise made by Miss Jessie Wharton, leader of the London Palace Girls, dancing with Fred Stone in "Tip Top," which appears at the Orpheum in Vancouver, March 5-6.

In the first place, John Tiller is probably the most widely known teacher of ensemble dancing in the world. He never has left England, but his dancing troupe has been all over the world. The London Palace Girls, appearing at the Palace Theatre, London, he regarded as his best dancers, and it was always the most accomplished of his pupils who were assigned to the John Tiller troupe, which has always consisted of sixteen dancers. Consequently, when Charles Dillingham contracted for their two years' engagement in America, Tiller insisted upon the condition that Miss Wharton was to accompany the troupe and herself promise to return it to Tiller two years hence.

This introduces Miss Wharton. She herself is a John Tiller graduate. She began in one of his dancing schools when she was eight years old, and made her first stage appearance in pantomime four years later. Since that time she has danced continuously with Tiller's troupe. All of the girls in the London Palace troupe are graduates of the John Tiller School, and have danced together for several years. Miss Wharton herself has been a member of the troupe twelve years. She is the senior member, but eleven of the girls have danced together for the past ten years. Two have been with the troupe eight years, and two are comparatively novices of but six years.

Perhaps it is the long association together of the sixteen girls which makes Miss Wharton's task possible. Then she suggests, English dancing girls have a pronounced pride, which American dancers do not seem to possess. An American dancer, Miss Wharton says, would feel herself perfectly justified in leaving her profession at any time which did not involve actual contract breaking. But John Tiller's girls have a pride of common accomplishment, and the ties of several years of association to bind them together.

With all her English training, Miss Wharton has a "Yankee" head for business. She transacts all the business for the troupe, collecting the amount paid for the act and paying each girl her share. She keeps out for the girls in their off-stage hours. She has them quartered in four groups of four girls each, looks in often to see that they are comfortable and happy, reminds them to go in home frequently, and checks up their eating of American chocolate nut sundae, as well as finding time to be banker, confidant and shopping guide.

Showing Motion Pictures To Bandits and Villagers In Remote Parts of China

This story is part of the account given by R. P. Montgomery of his experiences in showing the movies to Chinese bandits. Mr. Montgomery is attached to the American Presbyterian Mission at Linchow, Kiangsu Province, China, but is at present on leave of absence, and is making his headquarters at the Y.M.C.A. here.

Taking advantage of a short holiday vacation in my boarding-school at Linchow, South China, one day I started from home with my little Pathé machine, prepared, to give some Chinese mountaineers their first motion picture thrills. Taking turns with me, riding pony, we rode along to explain the pictures, and one of my school teachers. We reached our first objective—a little village among the mountains twenty miles from our home, at 3 p.m. A big strong coolie carried my machine, sixteen short films, and our bedding, suspended from a pole on his shoulders. We had travelled a stone-paved foot-path, generally following watercourses, for that is the only type of road available in that part of China.

The little store-building used for a chapel was crowded with men that night long before the pictures were to be shown. Tickets had been sold in advance. The Chinese peacock-preacher at four cents each, but many had gotten them free on some pretext or other, and the local Christians had paid half rates. The people here were wary, for this was an innovation, and were not willing to be led away to pay after they had seen the films, and had been satisfied that they were worth the price. For the impecunious, something less than the maximum fee could be written on the back of the ticket, which would pay four cents and be conscious of great generosity. Moreover, those who got in free would not be reckoned as dead-beats and so "lose face."

Method of Showing.

Our plan was to use our excellent series of films illustrating the life of Jesus, but to open and close with secular subjects. We went along as many people seeing the pictures through the door, behind which they stood up in tiers on various supports, and had entered the temple. The next afternoon we went out five miles to a little hamlet in the country. It was one of many fortified citadels which are maintained by country gentlemen in China. The outermost houses are close side by side, arranged so as to form a rectangular wall when the gates are closed at night, the outer windows being small and heavily barred. On our way out we passed the place on the road where the leading man of this hamlet, a public-spirited citizen and father of the Christian teacher who was with us, had been cruelly murdered a few weeks before by soldiers in the pay of his personal enemies.

Only School in Neighborhood.

On reaching the hamlet, we wended our way through a maze of stone-dogs, chickens and children. Finally we came to a long three-story building, semi-American style, the home of our murdered friend and his teacher, son. The pictures were to be shown here under the auspices of the little Christian primary boarding-school for boys, which was housed in the capacious third story. The teacher, a friend of our teacher and employed by him, had trained the boys to be good police officers, and the thirty made a low bow and repeated my name as he greeted us.

Here we showed our films twice, as there were too many people to get in at once. The prices here had been reduced to suit the locality. We got some money, finding my pony was too small to be of use here, and walked back to town in time for ladies' night at the chapel.

The next day we made an early start, headed for a school several miles across the mountain. The Provincial border, where some of our Christian graduates were to meet us.

Soon after crossing the border, we passed through a village where some scores of men in uniform, their heads wrapped in black turbans, were walking about, picking up and rambling. We overheard one of them say: "Shall we rob them?" But no body molested us. A little farther we descended into a river valley, where we saw more of the same fellows strolling about. A gentle, unarmed man, who seemed to be the leader of a band of soldiers, told us to stop, made several enquiries, and politely told us we would have to send our cards to his commanding officer in the village, three miles away. We did so. After about an hour the messenger returned and told us we would have to go in person. The Chinese peacock-preacher and I followed him to the village, which seemed to contain a number of houses, but no body else. We were taken up into the village temple, which as usual was evidently being used for barracks. Everyone who cared to, including the cook, plied us with questions. After a few hours the peacock-preacher, a dissolute-looking young man in civilian dress, appeared and made careful inquiries about our identity, purpose and destination. After delivering a curtain lecture of some length, he informed us of the great crowds of curious soldiers and camp-followers, to a bridge, beyond which, he said, he had no jurisdiction. Then he left us, with a charge to report to him when we returned the following day. The two hours had tried our patience somewhat, for our destination was eight miles away, and it was beginning to rain.

Guarding Their Property.
We crossed the bushes, and followed the road to the next town.

Cleaned Out by Robbers.

We spent the next night in a little country village where there were a score of Christians, and showed our pictures to them and their friends. The price here was one cent. This village had been cleaned out by robbers, and was extremely poor. One of our Christian men had been kidnapped on that occasion, and had been so cruelly beaten that he will always be a weakling.

This was a "second" village, that is, a village which had been deserted, and, as before, had been left in the care of the local militia, who had been the leader of a robber band a year before, but had now "reformed," on condition that he should have a good "regular" job. About 4 p.m. this commander came in and made our acquaintance. He was a eight miles back to Linchow before sundown, three of us sharing the pony as before.

In the port cities of China motion pictures have been shown for many years. Many of them are cheap and vulgar. We have been trying to alleviate this undesirable condition by showing pictures that are clean, educational and uplifting. And we have made many friends and secured a hearing for the Christian message in this way.

The girl was very rich and the young man was poor. She liked him, but that was all, and he knew it.

"You are very rich," he remarked.

"Yes," she replied, frankly. "I'm worth seventy-five thousand pounds."

"And I am poor."

"Will you marry me?"

"No."

"I thought you would."

"I wonder why did you ask me?"

"Oh, just to see how a man feels when he loses seventy-five thousand pounds."—Tit-Bits.

THE USE OF AN ADVERTISING AGENT

Some men make their own wills to save the lawyer's bill. Their lawyer says ten times as much. Few are foolish enough to build without an architect. Some try it themselves. It is a poor bargain. As the man who builds a house without an architect is the business man, no matter how thoroughly he knows his business, it is better to get the most out of his business without the advice of an advertising expert.

BODY IDENTIFIED

Press Notices Led to Identification After Burial

One week after the remains were buried in the grounds of the body of the late William Reid, a member of the crew of the ill-starred Alaskan, had been established. The identification of the body arose from the fact that J. Dubois, 943 Yates Street, read in the local press and recognized the clothing said to have been worn by the man.

Mr. Dubois got in touch with the Provincial Police and succeeded in getting a partially completed identification of the remains. A leather jacket and ankle high boots were the first proof of identity. It appears that the late William Reid shipped on the Alaskan at the main port and came with a narrow margin of missing the boat. The Alaskan sank with all hands off Pachena Point on January 2. The body was recovered on February 3 and buried on February 10.
